I believe in Christianity as I believe that the sun has risen:
not only because I see it,
but because by it I see everything else.
C. S. Lewis

Building Moore

Right now there is a lack of suitable teaching space at Moore College. Several classrooms are too small to accommodate some larger class sizes and every week, students have to assist with setting up and breaking down of lecture rooms. Students are in some classrooms with poor acoustics, obscured visibility and limited power points for them to utilise their own technology in lectures.

This lack of teaching space means each year it is becoming more and more difficult to accommodate the variety of needs of a large student body. New classrooms and lecture theatres are urgently needed to improve student experience and move the College forward.

Help build faith, help build Moore

$200 will provide a chair and desk in the new library

$500 will provide a seat in the new Assembly Hall

$1,000 will help provide a group study space in the new library

$10,000 will provide a dedicated research space for students

$50,000 will help establish a new classroom
